

MAINE SCIENCE FESTIVAL

Partners

Overview

A primary goal of the Maine Science Festival (MSF) is to showcase the businesses, organizations, industries, researchers, and educational opportunities that are rooted in science (in its many forms) in Maine. Working together, we can show Mainers that we have remarkable scientists, engineers, researchers, and innovators who are national and world-leaders in their fields. We want them to be as well-known in Maine as they are outside of Maine.

How partnering benefits you

The principal goal of the MSF is to recognize, celebrate, and explore the remarkable science happening in Maine every day, in a format that encourages exploration and that is markedly different than the “usual” way people have learned about science. We provide a new way to get Mainers interested and excited about science, using totally different events than people expect, like talks in bars; workshops with artists and scientists together; exhibits; hands-on activities; and films with discussions.

We do this with our festival programming, with monthly newsletters that promote MSF Partner events around the state, and with an expanding number of MSF Pop-up Events that take place outside of the festival weekend.

MSF Partners are publicly acknowledged throughout the MSF programming, on our website, and in social media postings.

How Partners benefit the MSF

Maine Science Festival staffers make connections to science organizations and scientists year-round. We ask our partners agree to be connected to these organizations for specific projects or general connections that may benefit your organization, or to see if there are ways that you can work together to promote and enhance science in Maine.

One of the most important needs we have (beyond programming events) is to get word out about science in Maine! To make this happen, we rely on partners to:

- Let the MSF know about events, promotions, job opportunities, and other public outreach.
- Be part of the MSF marketing and social media efforts for the weekend and any events you are part of.
